

2010 QUIP Membership & Dues/Subscriptions

Join QUIP, renew your membership and pay your dues/subscriptions online at www.quakerquip.org. If paying in US dollars, you can send a check with the form below to the treasurer, address below. If paying in sterling or any other currency, please go on line, use the online membership function and the PayPal "donate" function to pay your dues/subscription or email clerks@quakerquip.org.

Quakers Uniting in Publications, begun informally in 1983 by a small group of Quaker publishers and booksellers, is now an international network of over 50 Friends organizations and individuals concerned with the ministry of the written word. Members work together to achieve common goals:

- accessible centers for the distribution of Quaker publications
- a website listing of all Quaker publications currently available (<http://www.quakerquip.org>)
- cooperative publishing to provide needed, good books at lower prices
- forum for the exchange of editorial concerns
- education of members in the conduct of sound and ethical business
- increased awareness of Quaker publications in the broader religious book market
- annual meetings for education, business, and encouragement of faith in worship.

Member Benefits

QUIP members receive:

- online access to the membership directory, the QUIP newsletter, internal forums and discussion groups
- preferential listing of new publications on the QUIP website
- web listing as a Quaker publisher, bookseller, author or as offering other services
- continuing educational information on marketing, publishing, distributing, and writing
- networking opportunities.

Member Responsibilities

QUIP is a cooperative organization where members participate in the work and worship of the group, as led and able. This can include serving on standing committees, project committees and program planning committees for conferences and annual meetings.

To become a member of QUIP or renew your membership, please go to www.quakerquip.org and complete the membership process or mail the form below with dues/subscriptions in US $ to Betsy Muench, Treasurer, address below.
